C.A.T. oil AG called Petro Welt Technologies AG effective today

- Entry in the commercial register in Vienna as of today, August 23, 2016

Vienna, August 23, 2016

Today the change in the company name of C.A.T. oil AG, which is now called Petro Welt Technologies AG, was entered into the commercial register. Accordingly, the name change approved unanimously by the Annual General Meeting held on June 17, 2016 has been legally and formally implemented.

The new name underlines the Company's emphasis on technological services in oil and gas as well as the global reach of the Company. At the same time, the name relates to the seat of the Company and the stock exchange where its securities are traded in the German-speaking region of Europe. With the new name, the Company underlines its special position in the market and its technological direction.

The name change also settles a long-lasting litigation with Caterpillar Inc. concerning the use of the name "CAT".

The Internet address of the company will be correspondingly adapted in the near future. The ticker symbol O2C.DE will stay effective until further notice.
